

Moosehead Hills Cabins has been awarded the designation of Environmental Leader by the Maine Department of Environmental Protection.

Our Environmental Policy: We believe that protecting the environment happens one individual at a time; one business at a time. We proactively seek ways to preserve the wilderness character of the Moosehead Lake Region, and to reduce our impact on the environment overall.

Here are some examples of the things we do to protect the environment:

- We feel strongly about conserving land rather than developing it. In support of this, we changed the zoning designation of our land from Residential Development to Tree Growth zoning, so it will not be developed. Our 50 acres now have meandering nature trails with plenty of wildlife. This is a wilderness sanctuary for our guests to enjoy and hopefully learn to appreciate nature from.
- We cut firewood from our own land according to our forest management plan, which was created by a licensed forester. Additional firewood needed is obtained from a local sawmill scrap wood pile.
- All soap, candles, and cleaning products are made from natural, non toxic ingredients, with no animal testing.
- We use water conserving fixtures and energy efficient heating sources in all cabins.
- Rustic furniture and woodworking in the cabins is created from trees on our own land. We are now building our Adirondack chairs from wood composite materials, which include recycled bottles.
- We use recycled paper for our business stationary, business cards, and printer paper.
- We provide each cabin with a recycling barrel and ask our guests to help us recycle as much of their waste as possible.
- We compost kitchen waste and cabin woodstove ashes for enriching the soil in our gardens. We don't use ANY chemical fertilizers on the grounds.
